Surety Systems Announces Strategic Partnership with Core Health Technologies to expand IT Services Offering in Healthcare

RALEIGH, North Carolina (June 26, 2014) – Surety Systems, a rapidly growing IT Services company, announced today that they are partnering with Core Health Technologies to provide an expanded solution offering focused on healthcare integration (HL7/X12).

"Historically, we've expanded our solutions organically to broaden our ability to solve our clients' challenges. This new partnership with Core Health is a unique fit since we have solid healthcare relationships established and this will aggressively expand our offering in that market," said Matthew Wright, Partner at Surety Systems who leads their Lawson and Kronos practices. "Core Health Technologies has a strong reputation for delivering integration solutions tailored to their clients' specific situation and integration is a natural expansion of Surety's Lawson and Kronos solutions for healthcare organizations."

Surety Systems has selected specific account representatives who have a significant healthcare presence to lead the initial stages of the partnership by offering Core Health Technologies' healthcare integration solutions to their clients.

Both Lawson (Infor) and Kronos enjoy significant market presence in Healthcare. While Surety Systems has become a valuable alternative to the software vendors' internal consulting services for their clients, Surety Systems believes they can make an even bigger impact by adding the ability to solve healthcare integration challenges. Surety Systems plans to immediately provide service options for Cloverleaf, Corepoint, Ensemble, Rhapsody, and Epic Bridges through their partnership with Core Health.

Surety Systems has over 11 years of experience providing ERP solutions nationwide specializing in Lawson, JD Edwards, SAP, Kronos, and Tax Technology. In 2013 Surety Systems completed 181 ERP related projects in 32 states. Surety Systems separates themselves from competitors by providing senior highly-experienced consultants in a solution that allows their clients to retain ownership and control of the solution with maximum ROI. The company is headquartered in Raleigh, NC and works nationally.

Core Health Technologies is a provider of IT solutions for healthcare organizations with specific expertise in healthcare integration and health information security. The company is headquartered in Raleigh, NC and has employees and consultants throughout the United States.
